Pastoral Care

The quality of relationships between all members of school, staff and pupils, and the relationship with parents and carers is the area that is most commonly associated with the ethos of a church school. It is expressed in the terms of sharing and caring. Jesus was clear in His instructions to the disciples on this matter. "Love your neighbour as yourself" – Matthew 22:39. "This is my commandment: love each other." John 15:17. Everyone associated with the school is made in the image of God and is to be loved. This is the commandment from which Northern Lights Learning Trust derives its policy for pastoral care.

We have a series of overlapping networks of relationships which include trustees, governors, staff, children parents, church members and members of the community which the school seeks to serve. Our pastoral work will strive to meet the significant challenge to create and maintain such networks in ways which reflect the Gospel. Those who are in leadership roles, which includes all who have a particular responsibility, ensure that by their personal example they set the highest standards expected.

It is from this premise that Christian love will pervade all aspects of life at Northern Lights Learning Trust. It will influence how we reward and punish. It will affect how we value work and achievement of pupils and staff. It will be seen in the way in which the school environment is created and cared for. In the way in which teaching and non-teaching staff work together effectively as a team.

Benedict Biscop C.E. Academy Relationship and Health Education policy is part of the Academy's pastoral system and safeguarding arrangements.

Intent:

At Benedict Biscop CE Academy we want our children to know that with God and together all things are possible. We want them to flourish, gaining a strong understanding of the world around them, their place in the world and an understanding of the people who live in it. In order to do this, we have to equip our children to live safely, healthily and responsibly.

To help equip our children to live safely, healthily and responsibly, every academy is required to deliver statutory Relationships and Health Education [RHE].

For the purpose of this policy, 'relationships education' is defined as teaching pupils about healthy, respectful relationships of all kinds with a focus on family and friendships, in all contexts, including online.

For the purpose of this policy, 'health education' is defined as teaching pupils about physical health and mental wellbeing, focussing on recognising the link between the two and being able to make healthy lifestyle choices.

Sex Education is not taught beyond the 2014 National Curriculum for Science.

At Benedict Biscop CE Academy statutory Relationship and Health Education content has been mapped out through our bespoke 'Personal Development' curriculum.

Underpinning our curriculum, the Christian values are central to forming and maintaining healthy relationships, valuing all God's children and respecting their choices and differences as well as supporting mental and physical wellbeing both now and in the future.

This policy sets out the framework for delivering our statutory duty to deliver Relationships and Health Education, whilst providing clarity on how it is informed, organised and delivered.

Curriculum organisation and delivery:

At Benedict Biscop CE Academy, we have tailored the PSHE Associations' 'Programme of Study' and their core themes of: Health and Wellbeing; Relationships; and Living in the Wider World, incorporated the DFE Citizenship non-statutory programme of study alongside elements unique to our school context to create our own bespoke curriculum, which meets the needs of our school, local community and wider context.

Within our Personal Development curriculum coverage is grouped into the following areas:

- Shared responsibilities
- Respectful relationships
- Personal safety
- Managing hurtful behaviour [i.e. bullying and discrimination]
- Online relationships/internet safety and privacy

- Living in the wider world
- Healthy minds
- Healthy bodies
- Citizenship

Each year group covers each area, ensuring that a spiral programme is in place: one that revisits themes, gradually extending thinking, expanding knowledge and developing skills. We avoid, where possible, 'one-off', stand-alone sessions that will not be revisited, and instead make constant links to previous learning and experiences, and build upon these.

In addition, the curriculum goes beyond statutory expectations by incorporating the following:

- Kidsafe – Benedict Biscop provide the KidSafe UK Safeguarding programme. This is a specialised child protection / safeguarding programme from Early Years Foundation Stage through to Year 6. The aim is to protect, educate and empower children. With the help of our puppet 'KS', the lessons help children take an active role in protecting themselves from all forms of abuse. It is a proactive, not reactive programme which empowers children to speak out to a trusted grown up about abuse, to help minimise the short and long term damage and harm associated with abuse. The programme helps pupils articulate their worries and concerns and provides a consistent age appropriate language shared by both children and staff, which is built on year by year across school.
- Rights respecting themes – In key stage 1 and key stage 2 each year group has a theme based on one of the Unicef Rights of a Child. This not only helps understand the rights they have further, but helps them gain a wider understanding of the impact and changes Nationally and Globally that these rights provide. It allows children to reflect on their life as citizens and identify positive changes they wish to make.
- Room to talk – an area in school where children feel safe, share their worries and their concerns within a safe environment before situations escalate. Children have a right to be heard. As a Rights Respecting school, we have developed a system in school called Room to Talk. This is a safe place for children to talk to a trusted adult about any difficulties they may be experiencing. Children will often create their own solutions. The adult's role in this is to facilitate rather than to find an answer. This NOT a counselling service but an opportunity for children to have access to designated support if they feel it is needed. Children may ask for support or be signposted for support by parents or staff.

Further links with our wider curriculum areas, for example, through family group opportunities in Early Years, Science, Computing and Physical Education in KS1 and KS2, also provide addition opportunities to further embedded content.

Teaching of the curriculum reflects requirements set out in law, particularly the Equality Act 2010, so that pupils understand what the law does and does not allow, and the wider legal implications of the decisions they make. Pupils will be taught about LGBT in an integrated way as part of work on different relationships, equality and diversity.

All teaching and materials are appropriate for the ages of the pupils, their religious backgrounds, their developmental stages and any additional needs, such as SEND.

The organisation of the class is conducive to effective learning, including the use of smaller groups dependent upon the nature of the topic being delivered at the time, and the cultural background of pupils where it is only appropriate to discuss the body in single gender groups.

Teachers will ensure teaching:

- Challenges perceived views of pupils based on protected characteristics and British Values, through exploration of, and developing mutual respect for, those different to themselves.
- Actively aims to reduce stigma, particularly in relation to mental wellbeing, and encourages openness through discussion and group work.

Working with external experts:

At times, school will work with external experts in order to enhance parts of the Curriculum e.g. the School Nursing Team. This enables pupils to access high quality education from experienced and trained professionals in their respective fields. In the event of such agencies working with pupils, school will ensure that:

- The appropriate measures are in place to safeguard pupils in line with school's existing policies.
- Teaching delivered by external providers fits with the planned curriculum and is in-line with this policy.
- Before delivering the session, the school will discuss the details of the expert's lesson plan and ensure that the content is age-appropriate and accessible for the pupils.
- The school will also ask to see the materials the expert intends to use, as well as a copy of the lesson plan, to ensure it meets all pupils' needs, including those with SEND.
- The school will agree with the expert the procedures for confidentiality, ensuring that the expert understands how safeguarding reports should be dealt with in line with the Child Protection and other safeguarding Policies.

Working with parents:

The role of parents in the development of their children's understanding about relationships is vital. Parents are the first teachers of their children. They have the most significant influence in enabling their children to grow and mature and to form healthy relationships. Parents will have access to this policy. At the launch of the policy, the contents will be shared with them. Drop-in events will enable parents to ask questions and provide the opportunity to address any concerns they may have. Details of these events will be shared via the school letter and newsletter systems.

Parents are always welcome to meet with their child's class teacher to discuss the content of lessons for their child and the Personal Development lead can be contacted via the school office to discuss the curriculum in its broader sense.

Confidentiality:

Confidentiality within the classroom is an important component of RHE and teachers are expected to respect the confidentiality of their pupils as far as is possible. However, staff are reminded that their duty to safeguard pupils supersedes this and any concerns should be reported to the Designated Safeguarding Lead (or deputy when this person is not available).

Managing Difficult Conversations:

Primary-age pupils will often ask their teachers or other adults questions pertaining to sex or sexuality which go beyond what is set out for RHE. Given ease of access to the internet, children whose questions go unanswered may turn to inappropriate sources of information. Careful consideration should always be given as to how to answer these questions, ensuring answers are factual and appropriate to the child's age, maturity and understanding. It may be necessary to seek advice from the Personal Development lead and/or parents/carers, to meet the unique needs of the child, as to how to sensitively and appropriately address these questions. Furthermore, the context in which these answers are addressed should also be given careful consideration, with one-to-one/ small group conversations deemed more appropriate.

Right to Withdraw

We want to support all young people to be happy, healthy and safe – we want to equip them for adult life and to make a positive. Our Relationships and Health Education will help to do this. It does not incorporate Sex Education, which is optional at Primary School. Relationships and Health Education are a statutory at primary curriculum and therefore parents do not have the right to withdraw their child from the subject. However, parents with concerns regarding the content of the curriculum should address these with their child's class teacher in the first instance, where we will work with parents to explain what is being taught and the rationale for our content.
